Mr. Cutting has about sixty men employed in the development of the two properties under the immediate supervision of Tom Kavanauagh, foreman. Mr. Cutting wants more men. He is employing all the miners who apply for work, and by September 1 hopes to increase the force to one hundred. The companies at Troy pay $3 for eight hour shifts.

In regard to the erection of a plant for the treatment of the ores. Mr. Cutting stated that the eastern officers of the Troy Copper company had favored taking immediate steps to that end, but they had deferred to his judgment. Mr. Cutting is conservative in this matter and if more mining superintendents in Arizona pursued the same policy there would be fewer failures to record. Mr. Cutting insists that the nines should be well opened and the character and probable output of the ores determined before the erection of a large reduction works is undertaken. The question of a water supply will affect the location of the works, although sufficient water has been developed at the mines to supply a smeiter of moderate size and a smelter will in Preaching services Sunday, 11 a. m. all probability be erected at the mines
